Biographical Summary

From <http://projectcamelot.org/>

Dean Warwick, alternative energy pioneer and researcher, collapsed and died on 7 October 2006 while speaking at Probe International's conference in Blackpool, England.

Originally from New Zealand – born of an MI6 operative – but lately resident in Scotland, Warwick had initially served in the New Zealand Army and was aware of the use of directed energy weapons to destroy targets, even buildings, as long ago as the 1970s.

Warwick had promised interviewer Dave Starbuck that he would make some very significant announcements at the conference concerning the murder of Bobby Kennedy, the identity of the “Anti-Christ”, and the connection between underground bases and hundreds of thousands of missing children.

Warwick had reached the point in his lecture when he stated he would next reveal who was behind Bobby Kennedy's murder. However, he never did. Instead, he said, “Bear with me for a moment”, leaned with his left elbow on a nearby table with his right arm across his body, and then fell flat on his face.

Shortly afterwards he was pronounced dead.

Warwick was aged 62 and was in good health. Shortly before he began his presentation, he said he felt a “beam” or “burning” at the side of his head, and conference organizers said he had spoken of having had a premonition that something “would happen”.

What happened?

[00:23:39.24] Dean Warwick: This is Dean Warwick speaking.

[00:23:42.05] Denny: Thank you for joining us. Were you able to transition successfully and was it true that you foresaw your own death? Were you deliberately killed by technology that is in the hands of government intelligence organizations? If so, what was this technology and how does it work?

[00:23:59.10] Dean Warwick: My passing was not accidental or due to natural causes, and when I transitioned, I did become earthbound. This is a tragedy befalling all too often the many people who routinely pass through normal aging and other calamities and die before their time. This, you saved me from and I wish to credit you and the beautiful work you are doing with your channel to make possible the growing body of truth you are bringing forward to help the world and all of its troubles, which are considerable. I need to be somewhat circumspect about the details of my passing as I cannot facilitate a law enforcement investigation, nor do I wish to trigger other scholars and other researchers from searching the bushes, so to speak, to track down potential perpetrators as this will put them in harm's way. It is not that one should not stand up for truth and for justice, as the two often go together. But justice has a different meaning in the light than in the physical plane.

[00:25:52.14] Dean Warwick: Your law enforcement practices are quite primitive, punitive, misguided, and often more destructive than beneficial. The divine simply does not support them in what they do for this reason. Karma, the Law of Cause and Effect, applies to us as much as to those in the earth plane. This is why the divine realm has very specific rules, and very specific limits for engaging with human affairs. The broad charter is non-interference across the board, for better or worse, because humans are in charge, and were put in charge, as part of the divine plan for humanity to try its wings as independent extensions of Creator consciousness to go forth and expand and grow, and create new ways of seeing new opportunities, new perspectives, and eventually, new worlds to bring forth new life forms, to do more of the same. This can be a glorious, fun-filled, exciting and extremely rewarding enterprise—but when it is contaminated with darkness, things will change, and eventually almost everything will become tainted and lowered in its ability to contribute, and instead will drag one down and create potentially a karmic quandary for them that can be monumental in its consequences.

[00:28:15.26] Dean Warwick: This happens with the killing of human beings. That was done to me. I was murdered. I was killed to silence me. This is the price I paid for seeking truth and wanting to share that truth with others. It is the risk of all who break new ground and call out those who are engaged in scurrilous activities and the manipulation of other human beings, and this is done at all levels of human society.

There is no arena untouched by the hidden hand of corruption and darkness. This is what did me in, and they will sideline or remove many who step forward as a potential whistleblower to speak truth and help awaken others to the reality of what is taking place right in front of them, but do not have eyes to see. I wish this were not the case. There need to be whistleblowers. There need to be seekers of truth and those willing to explore the forbidden. The idea of secrets is largely non-divine, except as truth is too painful, that is the exception. All know practical instances where the rule applies. You do not share all your adult knowledge with very young children who are too tender in years and too innocent and naive to understand the complexities of life and need to be shielded, as they mature, from some of the darker aspects so their fears do not become too great. This will hinder them and block their progress, and even their successful maturation. This being one example of perhaps a “white lie.”

[00:31:01.22] Dean Warwick: There are mostly dark lies in your world, and many are lies told through ignorance, through manipulation. This is the enemy you are fighting and is the reason so very few human reporters can even be trusted to bring forth useful information. In almost all cases, facts will be intermixed with fantasy in a deliberate strategy to cause mistrust of the voice coming forward. If proven to be wrong in a big way, seemingly, about something, they will lose credibility, and this makes them powerless and seemingly of no value as a witness or reporter of hidden knowledge. This strategy works quite well, and you see this routinely in all arenas visible to the public at least, but such things go on in private as well. The whispering campaigns, the backstabbing, the deliberate corruption of thinking by a competing co-worker adding a poison pill in the mind of a supervisor or the head of an organization that someone might be working against them, and this will lead to the person being fired for some justification that may be trumped up, but serves to do the deed.

[00:33:08.27] Dean Warwick: Such things happen every day to sideline people in earnest wanting to do good work, wanting to help. It is the way of the world and not the exception. My claim to fame, such as it is, was to die suddenly, and visibly, in front of an audience—but this is a good example of how brazen and, as well, how effective this strategy can be, to carry it out in front of so many witnesses, and then to have the reason covered up and dismissed as being one of those things, and then the world moves on and my name is forgotten and the episode rationalized in people's minds as simply an unfortunate turn of fate for the poor fellow. We had much we could have done, and had made recent plans to do more, to be more visible with my story, and in turn, become a seeker of truth myself. But I can tell you I was quite naive and the reality of my demise is proof certain, I would not have lasted any length of time on that path because in fact, my strategy and planning were nipped in the bud almost at the outset, and highly effectively.

[00:35:21.06] Dean Warwick: This is the reach of the dark Extraterrestrial Alliance to know what people are thinking, what they are planning, everything they are up to as well as what they are capable of doing. This is something that seems wildly improbable, but we can tell you is routine. This has gone on for thousands and thousands of years. This is the explanation why most uprisings, most coups, and most overthrow of the established order will be aborted. The plots will be discovered, and a backlash orchestrated to take out the challengers before they can even get going, in many cases. They may be allowed to start their plot in motion simply to create witnessed evidence of the plot to justify what happens next, depending on the particular circumstances—but it is a kind of a game. The Extraterrestrial Alliance is far ahead of you, and this is why it is so extremely difficult to make real progress. For the most part, the information coming forward of a highly unusual nature, and provocative nature, about the darkness is information that is allowed to come forward. This is based on an awareness that it is easier to keep a secret that is open and, in effect, a non-secret. All one has to do is to discredit those who believe in the secret information, and that will cause the minds to close and, as they snap shut, precludes further discussion.

[00:37:56.13] Dean Warwick: This has been known and talked about throughout history as well, that the people will believe the biggest lies. It is the small lies they can potentially confront, and that is because the big lies are supported with mind-control manipulation. This is the environment I was a part of and witnessed firsthand. This is what led to my demise and why it is so very important that any hidden knowledge you can acquire will serve you in the end so greatly, because there is much to do yet and little time to waste.

[00:38:55.21] Denny: Okay, thank you. You claimed that the 9/11 twin towers were taken down by an infrasound technology and we have learned elsewhere that the towers were demolished by ET craft overhead that were entirely responsible for the destruction. Can you clarify for us the actual technology used, and whether or not a sound technology was used and whether or not U.S. government agencies were directly involved in this event?

[00:39:22.12] Dean Warwick: This story of mine is very close to the truth, but not perfectly accurate. The entire day of 9/11, and the events that played out in the nation's capital as well as the flight that was aborted and crash landed, and the fire from the crashed aircraft in the Twin Towers in New York City, all happened because of a grand conspiracy; not by disaffected Muslim would-be terrorists. That was a cover story only. This was a conspiracy of the Extraterrestrial Alliance using human minions under mind-control manipulation to carry out the deeds. Even the implementation of that energy weapon, used to ultimately cause collapse of the towers, was largely done by human operators inside an alien craft that was cloaked, but hovering, and invisible to the eye.

This is why the damage was not done with pin-point precision. It is because there were human errors involved—but this posed no difficulty, because mind-control manipulation was used to prevent any critical inquiry of the many bizarre artifacts created by the wild display of energy doing the wildly improbable—to topple two massive structures specifically designed to even withstand a direct hit by a commercial airliner.

[00:41:55.10] Dean Warwick: It was not faulty engineering. It was faulty reporting and mind-control manipulation to make people complacent, to still believe the talking heads on the televisions, the news in print, the pronouncements of public officials mind-controlled to give a prosaic explanation for things, with a dual mission: to keep the public complacent for humanitarian and security reasons to avoid panic and confusion, and too great a disruption of normal life, which would be economically destructive and highly stressful for the public caught up in a widespread turmoil in the aftermath of mass panic. There is a natural, instinctive reflex action on the part of leaders to attempt to engineer calm and promote the idea they have matters in hand, things are being dealt with, the ship of state will continue moving forward and they can be trusted to see that things stabilize, and then any wrongs will be righted, all of which encouragement may have little to do with reality, but is soothing, much as like a pat on the head by a loving parent when a child is in mortal danger.

[00:44:03.16] Dean Warwick: The orchestration of the event was done with a complicity by news organizations, from top to bottom, and with the military with respect to air defenses being lowered, misdirection of defensive measures, lax security and faulty dissemination and lack of action about intelligence giving some warning of an impending disaster. This is a multi-layered saga involving hundreds and hundreds of individuals, all of whom know one piece of the puzzle, but do not know enough of the other pieces to fully appreciate what is important about the piece they know and understand. Most will not appreciate they did see part of the working of the conspiracy because they believe there was no conspiracy of a larger sort, and so, even those details will increasingly be forgotten, and the official story will remain carved in stone going forward. This is seen to with the mind-control we have already spoken of. It is highly effective, and will make people disregard the most obvious, conflicting evidence that completely shatters the official theory and description of the events.

[00:46:19.13] Dean Warwick: The destruction in New York ranged far beyond the perimeter of the World Trade Center itself—entirely unexplained. It is there on record with hundreds and hundreds of photographs and videos, but people do nothing about this discrepancy, because they are suppressed to be non-curious and to avoid taking any action. If they do, they will not be listened to. Conspiracies these days largely exist to promote other conspiracies. Anything you hear about and learn about is just as likely to be disinformation as accurate knowledge. Many actual conspiratorial events are discussed openly because there will be another theory that invokes them for a different purpose than the true one, and it thereby shields those things that are witnessed with a plausible explanation that is of no concern. There are many ways deception is mounted, all of which are effective and done as a matter of routine. Conspiracies also are mounted to be discredited, and to the extent people with reputations are duped into embracing them, it serves to discredit them as a source; and even if they are not fired from their post, will never be seen the same way by viewers and those listening to their pronouncements, all of which has an effect on public opinion and keeps the deepest and darkest of truths well-hidden from view.

[00:49:10.15] Dean Warwick: Everything is witnessed on a surface level and everything witnessed is attributed to human doings, human inefficiency, human failings, and human error. This is deliberate and is a distortion of the truth of things. There are many actions that take place by humans who are totally under the grip of this hidden cabal, and they carry out acts of sabotage, targeted killings and terrorism that is blamed on others as a false flag operation. This is the diabolical nature of the extraterrestrial beings who put a vise-like grip on humanity and control everything that happens of importance. They use humans to torment you, to disrupt your world, and to cause death and destruction. This is true on every level of society, up to and including, the world leaders who send armies forth to engage in combat. It is all the same. The human minions are marching people to their death in the name of national interest, security concerns, avenging of seeming wrongdoing that is an insult, or a perceived threat, and they are enlisting public opinion to become irate at the action of the hostile foreign force, to back the nation's will and leadership to send young, innocent men forth to tarnish their souls with killing. It is all the same. What happened to me is no different than the World Wars. It was orchestrated at the outset by the hidden darkness controlling the world.

[00:52:01.17] Denny: Okay, thank you. You spoke convincingly about your knowledge of child abductions and the consumption of human flesh and blood and the plausible reasons for it. You also reported that about 0.5% of the populations of young humans between the ages of 10 and 23 of North and South America go permanently missing. Is this actually the case? Are the numbers or percentages increasing? Why is this happening?

[00:52:32.29] Dean Warwick: This is a real phenomenon. The numbers are accurate. The losses are staggering and the reasons behind it are diabolical and perverse. This is, perhaps, one of the more depraved of the many acts of depravity committed by the Extraterrestrial Alliance. Their corruption of humanity includes the encouragement of a kind of worship of power, and this is embraced by those engaged in Satanic Cults and all that they do, and typically, involving human sacrifice. Children have a special appeal because they are pure in heart, and to see them as victims is a perverse pleasure in a particular perspective these extraterrestrials hold. It magnifies in contrast how great and powerful they see themselves towering over an innocent child and using it as a snack, for example. Some of these extraterrestrials are cannibals. They eat human flesh. They drink human blood. There are hybrid beings of this extraterrestrial lineage— the Anunnaki—who engage in such practices as well, because it is their karma; it is their makeup, and they are loyal to their Anunnaki forebears. They are aware of their origin and they preserve their bloodline. They engage in such practices, themselves, and partly it is through a belief it will help preserve their personal power.

[00:55:29.07] Dean Warwick: This is one of the falsehoods that has developed in their culture. It is much like the Aborigine Tribes who eat the brains of their victims. There is an inner-knowing the brain is the seat of intelligence, and they view ingesting the brain as a way of incorporating whatever is of value in their opponent—to strengthen and further empower themselves. That is the thinking behind this practice. These beings, these extraterrestrial beings, are atheists. The biggest lesson you can learn from this is the dark danger in giving up your belief in the Almighty. There is a God in heaven. I am with the Creator of All That Is in this moment, and the Creator wants all listening to this to understand, fully, what this sorry spectacle represents. It is the end result of surrendering your divinity. That is what has happened to the extraterrestrials in turning away from the Divine through a worship of themselves, and their technologies, that has led to this extreme of disconnection and disbelief; and as atheists of long-standing, and we are talking about many millions of years now, there is no way back for them through their own capabilities. All they know is power. All they worship is power. Anything they may perceive as adding to their power, may well engender a ritualistic fascination and exploitation.

[00:58:24.18] Dean Warwick: It is much like sexual perversions that seem inexplicable to many, but have a basis in psychology, in providing a reward of some kind that enhances the sexual experience. Preying on children, torturing them and eating the flesh of a savagely tormented and tortured innocent being, thrills the practitioners with this karmic history, because it is the glorification to them of their personal power and control; and they have come to believe this will be strengthened further by creating such victims through their own hands. Many of these cults are operating today and they need a source of victims. This is the driving force, in addition to the sex trade—the sex trafficking of children, to satisfy the perverse desires of some in this netherworld of corruption. These are acts of depravity that should stir the hearts of everyone and represent a call to action to end the madness once and for all. For this you need more than law enforcement; you need the Divine hand to work behind the scenes to undo what has happened to put them in charge of your world instead of you.

[01:00:41.15] Dean Warwick: You are the rightful heir of the planet Earth. They, in effect, have taken it from you already. They simply allow you to operate on a mundane level—what happens on its surface—at least in part, and that is because they can manipulate you and have fun with you. So, in this respect, the entirety of Planet Earth is, in effect, a zoological park, a zoological preserve—a zoo—in common parlance. You are the animals on display. Your behaviors are a curiosity for the attendees watching from hidden locations and perturbing you to see what will happen. Humans visiting the zoo will throw peanuts to the monkeys, and marshmallows and other unhealthy items, often, to the larger animals on display. That, at least as far as it goes, is perceived as an act of kindness, not in causing harm or torment. The extraterrestrials, on the other hand, visiting the human zoo bring hurricanes and tornadoes and wildfires and blizzards and floods, and pestilence, infection and disease, early death, children with Autism, on and on and on it goes.

[01:03:11.00] Dean Warwick: The story of the seven plagues in the Bible is a real story of their actions. The plagues are back on and occurring worldwide. The plucking of children from their beds at night or from the woods, or from the streets, surreptitiously, because it is often conducted through advanced technology, undetectable by human observers, is a plague, a plague of attrition. People need to take this seriously. It is not an exaggeration. There are no words to describe the experience of many of these children in what they endure. When death comes it is a total blessing compared to what they have lived. People need to wake up and take action. For this, you only need prayer. It can be an act done in privacy within your own mind. It is an act of nobility and divinity, both, to be an advocate for the human family and for goodness and love to rein once again.

[01:05:09.21] Denny: Okay, thank you. You reported that in the Lockerbie air disaster, seven people who were passengers survived the crash. Is this true and what happened?

[01:05:23.05] Dean Warwick: This is true. This was an attempt to cover up certain information. There was some confusion in the execution of the deed, which was done via extraterrestrial means. There were people taken from the craft and were not killed in the crash landing. Those who witnessed this in action could not be allowed to live following the crash itself. This is not uncommon. This was the fate of those in the planes crashing into the World Trade Center. There were no people on board. So, this is a tip-off and must be covered up. That is the purpose behind what took place here; to essentially cover their tracks and protect the dark secret of what really happened. There is always a patsy, orchestrated through mind-control manipulation, to be traceable as a potential cause of whatever happens, for example, with a bombing. There may be a physical bomb involved, but there may be other things that take place because the Extraterrestrial Alliance can see to a disaster with greater efficiency than relying totally on such crude measures—but the proximity of a would-be bomber provides the cover story to allow the finger-pointing and the blame to be assigned, and then the press moves on and the story covers up the truth of things.

[01:08:17.02] Dean Warwick: This happens again, and again, and again where an act of sabotage is blamed on a nation state and its evil-seeming government, when in fact, it was done by the Mercenary Human Army commandeered by the extraterrestrials for such duty; human against human serving the hidden cabal and the Extraterrestrial Alliance wanting to constrain your progress, rein you in and begin an increasing and accelerating program of attrition, a thinning of the herd, and the ultimate demise of humanity altogether—except for a cohort of human guinea pigs to reward the Alien Grey contingent in the Alliance who have a perverse fascination with human reincarnation, and have been studying humans for thousands of years to solve the mystery of how this comes about. Being robotic beings, and created by atheists, they will never understand the truth of what takes place, because they do not believe in the Divine, and the Divine is the creator of all life, and the elegance built into the life force energy itself, and the capabilities of consciousness, and the workings of the soul expressing itself in manifold ways, remain a mystery to these beings. That is what their disbelief has brought them.

[01:10:51.29] Dean Warwick: They have progressed far beyond the human level, and in fact, those technological accoutrements you enjoy are largely from engineering learned through the extraterrestrials themselves; but it is an empty pursuit because it is devoid of love and is engineered to be destructive of your environment and human life itself. This is a grand joke among the Extraterrestrial Alliance. As you rush to build ever more and powerful cell phone towers and satellites with Internet cable television and other programming, those very technologies are inimical to your health and wellbeing. You are killing yourselves with your entertainment. That is the end product of making technology your god.

[01:12:28.16] Denny: Okay, thank you. Was the Pan Am flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland brought down by a surface-to-air missile, or some other weapon in control of Western or U.S. governmental agencies, and not a planted bomb as alleged?

[01:12:49.20] Dean Warwick: This was done courtesy of the Secret Space Program, also known by Creator's term, the Mercenary Army Program. It was done by humans as a practice mission for things yet to come. When you think of the fact that, at any given moment, there are thousands of commercial aircraft in the air, when a decision is made for wide-scale destruction of humanity, that must be dealt with, if the goal, as it happens to be, is to remove everyone not already abducted in advance and sequestered to be saved for laboratory use, so to speak. So, humans involved in every conceivable walk of life and environment and location will need to be rounded up. This was simply a practice exercise and, in addition, was used to foment political trouble by disguising it as a terrorist act and linking it to a world leader cultivated to create a thorn in the side of the West. This has been done over and over again from both ends of the politics. The problem is not, solely, the West or the Middle East, or the Asian Nations, or the troubling dictators in many, many areas of the world—in Africa and South America, for example.

[01:15:21.29] Dean Warwick: The problem is the contest between humans and non-humans. What do you suppose makes an evil dictator an evil dictator? Is it a mental aberration because someone took their toys away when they were three or four, and they have striven their entire life to take toys away from others? That is a trivial explanation using psychology to pontificate a hypothesis that is simply wrong. What happens is an inner-corruption initiated by dark spirit beings who turned away from the heavenly realms through ego and a lust for greater influence and power than bestowed by the Divine. They were given a position of a lofty sort, and infinite lifespan, and huge reach energetically to make all kinds of things happen; but there were limits, and they could not live with those limits, and sought to strike out on their own and establish their own rules. And as they engaged in non-divine conduct, fell from grace—meaning their non-alignment, their disunity caused them to fall away—and created a diminishment within them, and to then recover what they had lost became harder and harder. And in reacting to it, made matters worse by demanding more power and gaining it through exploitation of other beings in a false effort to build up themselves once again.

[01:18:19.28] Dean Warwick: They inflicted this perspective on the extraterrestrials who are now interfering with the earth, as well as with human beings, directly. It is only that human beings are a very young group of created, soul-based organisms that they are not so heavily corrupted as to be like the extraterrestrials and these dark spirits themselves; at least so far, and as things are heading, humans will, likely, not be in existence in human form much longer. So, the extraterrestrial depravity, courtesy of the dark spirit corruption of them for many millions of years now, will play out in the annihilation of an entire race of divine beings. This is the price of the exercise for free will to be allowed, with no limits, by the divine realm. It is a danger of the paradigm that this has happened. Allowing all possibilities means just that. This could have been dealt with early along by other beings on the level of these dark angelics, but they were not up to the task to rein them in. There needed to be a being of somewhat greater effectiveness.

[01:20:32.00] Dean Warwick: This is why humans were created. This is the deepest and darkest secret of creation—that your purpose as human beings is to solve the problem of the fallen angelics by helping them find a path to healing, and in turn, address the damage they have done to other beings than human. To raise up and rescue the members of the Extraterrestrial Alliance, to bring healing for them, as well, to overcome the corruption brought to them that has constrained them and brought them to the brink of their own annihilation through disconnection from the Divine. There is no judgment from the Divine directly. All the beings we are discussing have an immortal soul—but the workings of that soul are allowed only as long as there is a divine connection, because it is springing from divine consciousness and dependent on the willful addition of energy, to keep the souls going. It is essentially the power plant of the universe.

[01:22:18.15] Dean Warwick: When beings disconnect themselves from the divine and do so through depravity and become a scourge to other life forms, they can be disconnected. This is the fate of the fallen angels, and they only persist as parasites, drawing energy from the living. This fate can befall the extraterrestrials next if something is not done to save them. Humans are the chosen ones to be the healers by inserting them into the fray—even putting them at risk of being subjugated, and tarnished and corrupted by the madness themselves; all of which have happened. We still have faith in you and believe in you, that you can right the wrongs of history and turn this around. We will help you with it, but you must be the advocates. You must make the decision to act divinely, even against the most horrid and reprehensible opponent one could have, and ask the Divine for mercy, to raise them up once again so they can flourish by taking on more positive goals. This is what love can do when brought to bear through the divine realm. It can only happen through a request from the physical side. That is your role and your place in this. You will decide your fate and the fate of all these other races of beings.

[01:24:52.12] Dean Warwick: This is quite a burden to carry. Few humans are inclined to be beneficent to a tormentor, to a perpetrator—but you are ignoring the reality of the divine origins of those beings in making that assessment. This need not be your perspective, if you realize they are not so different from you but only misguided and mistaken in their thinking. You can easily follow their example and you would not want to see humans, even those misguided and corrupted, perish in a ghastly way. We await your decision. There is plenty of incentive, in saving yourselves, to take this path but the divine answer here is exactly as we have outlined; because the quickest and surest path to your rescue is to request healing for them, first, because that is the only thing that can stop your demise in time.

[01:26:32.24] Denny: Okay, thank you. You also report that in the late 40's, when Dwight D. Eisenhower was still in command of the Army, that he lost 350 men in an altercation or battle at, or near, Dulce AFB and then nuclear weapons were used. Is this true? What happened and why?

[01:26:56.17] Dean Warwick: This is a blending of fact and fiction. There was a battle at Dulce Air Base, and this was between humans and extraterrestrials. It had to do with support to provide infrastructure for the extraterrestrials and the Mercenary Army Program to provide a working platform within the territory of the U.S. to provide a vast underground facility for multiple purposes. This is the sequestering of captured beings from your world and others. It is a place for sequestering large numbers of humans to be salvaged prior to the annihilation we speak of. It is the launching pad, as well as a training center, for members of the Mercenary Army Program. Keep in mind that the personnel in the Mercenary Army Program are greater than one million human beings. So, this is not a small enterprise. This is acting worldwide, with emplacements worldwide, but requires a large infrastructure for housing and for deployment of the technologies that are used. There is a large moon base supporting the enterprise, and bases on other locations in the solar system and beyond. But, there are tactical advantages with terrestrial fortresses to provide way stations and opportunities for deployment and the interface with the human element, particularly abductees, and new recruits to the Mercenary Army Program itself.

[01:29:46.22] Dean Warwick: There are various experiences where branches of the military have been ordered forth to engage with extraterrestrial installations. This has been well documented, and that is what took place in this altercation in the Dulce Base. It was an attempted penetration for information gathering with a kind of misunderstanding of what was taking place at that facility. This is not hard to understand considering the highly secret nature of the enterprise. It is not a total operation of the Military Industrial Complex, in the know, and actively engaged at all levels; it is still known by a relative few as to the existence of the enterprise in these terms. This is why you can see the armed forces scratching their heads, seemingly, about UFO's and wanting more information because they themselves are puzzling about the appearance of such craft in proximity to military maneuvers. These are not manufactured stories done with a wink because all military personnel are fully apprised of the existence of the extraterrestrials and what they are up to, and essentially, they are willful collaborators. They, too, are in the dark because they need not be informed.

[01:32:06.21] Dean Warwick: The extraterrestrials have their own technologies and their own capabilities and can fly rings around any human vessels and outfight them, should that be needed. They are largely invulnerable, so they are impervious to most human manipulations—or would-be manipulations. Physical facilities can be attacked and compromised, and so there is vulnerability on that level, and that is why secrecy is preserved, in addition to the need to keep the game going so the world population, at large, not only is unaware of the extraterrestrial presence and all that it is doing, but has an additional program to make them disbelieve in its existence as a possible threat. This is carefully cultivated and is slowly being reworked via the so-called 'Disclosure Movement'. That is what is allowing more information that is real and valid to trickle out. They are building up to a coming-out party, so to speak, where extraterrestrials will come forth and announce their presence with a false story of being here to help and wanting humanity to accept them and give them greater authority in the role of helper—all of which will be quite disastrous to humanity and may constitute the final straw, the last act sealing their fate.

[01:34:20.07] Dean Warwick: The altercations at the extraterrestrial facilities are doomed to fail, always, because whatever is needed ultimately can be brought to bear by the Extraterrestrial Alliance to limit what happens, and then cover up the activity and plant false stories in people's minds. And this is a good example to invoke a nationally recognized military and political figure, on the part of general Eisenhower, as being actually involved with this military assault in Dulce, when it did not happen this way. And careful reconstruction of timelines from military records, and other news sources, will show no evidence of the plausibility in the final analysis. It is more rumor and conjecture, but it serves to discredit the idea of such an occurrence and preserves the secrecy in the doing of an actual military confrontation. This was a rogue operation, of a sort, carried out with a military commander taking it on himself to probe something of an alarming nature that he felt needed immediate attention, and before he could be reined in, launched this operation. It was ill-advised and it was done without full backing and authorization, but it was a miscue, of a sort, in the chain of command and created the basis of the need for cover-up and a kind of legend living on.

[01:36:47.27] Dean Warwick: The reality of things is, very few are in any position to take up a direct opposition to the hidden hand. It is too well entrenched, heavily disguised, and heavily defended by humans not fully even understanding the role they are playing, and who they are truly serving. Military personnel are trained to stand a post without being given the reasons why, and with no need to ask questions because that is part of their discipline; to ignore their own free will and their own curiosity, knowing it will only get them in trouble if they become nosy about something not knowable at their level of influence and authority. So, this allows many people to support such doings, both in the military and civilian sectors as well, doing construction, delivering goods and services within a secret facility for example, and to have this take place with impunity because anyone who sees something untoward, it will be dealt with and traceable, and then memories altered and cover stories supplied. And at the extremes, with all human beings considered as expendable, any troublemaker can simply be arranged to have an accident, some misfortune, and the problem is solved. These secrets are kept very carefully but without a level of perfection. As always, the complicity of the public, having been duped for so long and complacent about the manipulations, leave people with nowhere to go. There is really no one to complain to, or even blow the whistle to, other than some rogue organizations of conspiracy theorists, so-called, who are usually pursuing deep and highly important truths but given a disparaging label to feed the lie.

[01:40:06.28] Dean Warwick: Only so much truth will be allowed to come forward, even in those settings, because they are heavily infiltrated and monitored, and controlled up to a point through manipulation of the same sort, and it is a perfect launching pad for much disinformation, so that even those sympathetic to the reality of an extraterrestrial presence and seeing intuitively it is sinister in nature, will often be fooled by stories coming forth of all kinds of strange events and improbable scenarios, and many of these will be false, and provably false in the end, and it serves to keep the secret as much as trying to keep everything secret would be effective. A lie that is essentially truth in disguise is easy to launch forth and equally effective as disinformation.

[01:41:37.18] Denny: Okay, thank you. This is my last question. Our channel has noted that the Bible is actually a whistleblower's document warning us of the Dark Alien Agenda and you note that the accurate understanding of Genesis is that Cain actually ate Able in contrast to just murdering him. How best may we understand the story of Cain and Able?

[01:41:59.01] Dean Warwick: The true meaning of this story is an illustration of corruption of the human with ideas and proclivities of the Extraterrestrial Alliance in your midst. It is the makeup of human, in part, having been acculturated to the liking of the extraterrestrial overseers to have many flaws and many limitations, not part of the species as originally designed by the Almighty. The very existence of these human beings are a product of alien manipulation to begin with. They had a genetic difference, and this was an example of the early origins of the Caucasian race, and this was embodied with Cain who was fair-skinned and essentially a mutant of the original human makeup. This distortion was accompanied by further manipulations which were pervasive in the culture of their time, as is true today as well. There is nothing beyond the reach of the extraterrestrials, nor beyond their tinkering. So, everything must be seen through that lens to be fully understood.

[01:44:12.09] Dean Warwick: The nature of cannibalism, as we have described, is solely the perversion of the extraterrestrial thinking—to view ingesting the flesh of another as a way to self-empowerment and a demonstration of their superior status in having subjugated another. All of those actions are non-divine, and humans are divine beings to begin with. So, it takes a high degree of corruption to cause humans to engage in depravity. This, though, is the source when depravity occurs. It is coming first and foremost from the dark spirits of corruption, and also through the extraterrestrial influence because they have an agenda to influence humans. Their ideas are gained from the corrupting, dark spirit meddlers when it comes to subjugation, punishment, and killing, as well as the actions of cannibalism to further torment victims and degrade them with a ritual feast of their flesh. This has been done on rare occasions by humans for their own survival, but usually taking advantage of someone who has passed through natural causes, or the constraints of the current environment when people are lost in a wilderness, for example, with no food, but not through the deliberate killing in order to have a meal.

[01:46:41.14] Dean Warwick: When that is done, it is a sign that the human is in the background only, and what is acting in their stead is a part of their being held in the grip of corruption by outside agents, an outside corrupting force, working through the deep subconscious to corrupt their thinking, to sideline their morality and disconnect them totally from their conscience, which is the higher divine self existing beyond the human, but linked to them always, and to the soul residing in the heavenly realm. Humans with no conscience can do many evil things with no qualms or reservation, as they have been essentially disconnected from the Divine, and cannot be given much in the way of warnings and reminders of the wrong nature of what they are carrying out. They are truly lost and will perish in that state of being. This is the object lesson of the story in the Bible of Cain and Able. It is a story of extraterrestrial conquest and its consequences for the humans they perturb and modify genetically.

[01:48:35.04] Dean Warwick: That is the mark of Cain. It is the white lack of pigmentation in the skin as a result of genetic manipulation of abducted human beings. This was accompanied, in the case of Cain, with further dark influences to change his personality and reduce his humanity, and this is the basis of the characterization described in the bible without a mechanistic understanding of its origins, but was perceived as an important story to tell others. It is, in a sense, an archetypal depiction of good and evil, of power and domination, of sibling rivalry gone to excess and the consequences of non-divine thinking when set in motion—but the characters in the story have a deeper tale to tell because this was all set in motion by the Extraterrestrial Alliance. And this is why the story has been singled out for inclusion in the scriptures. It is because of this larger importance and significance, and there to be discovered and discussed, exactly as we are doing here, because you have come forth with the impetus of what I did to plant a seed in bringing this up at one point during my life.

[01:51:02.06] Dean Warwick: This has allowed the story to be revisited in a new setting, through a new lens, to bring the deeper meaning forward at long last. Much of what is in the scriptures is, in effect, a time capsule waiting to be analyzed and understood in new ways by further generations of human beings to piece together the truth of the human experience and the world as it truly is, and not what you see on the surface. This is why the Bible is a whistleblowing document—from first to last. Even those things that are faulty, that are readily denied by the divine beings you talk with, tell a story. How did the scriptures get corrupted? By whom? Through what means, and why was the corruption believed and embraced by many followers to take a bad example and believe it is divine, justified and appropriate to act accordingly? The absence of many truths is another tell, another line of evidence. Even in its absence there is something wrong with your world, and with your prophets, in not bringing forth the whole truth of things.

[01:53:07.28] Dean Warwick: Why the limitation? Why the restriction? Why is not the full story on display, in detail, with an understanding of how this came about and the purpose, if not the physics and science behind the phenomena, which would be too much to ask given the context of the early times when the scriptures were put into writing, finally? All are lines of evidence. People interpret this many, many ways, that the lack of specificity and deep explanation mean these are just primitive ideas, from a primitive people. There is nothing more to see, there is nothing more to find, to learn, or to understand in the events of their day. It may all be folklore and disregarded as having much to do with today's world, and the many conflicting examples of human conduct provide ample ammunition for the naysayers and skeptics, and the atheists to make fun at. This is all corruption; corruption of thinking, corruption of channeled wisdom being requested but being waylaid through imposters planting poison pills in the messages; misguided explanations, faulty thinking, and even an ultimate perversion of how the Almighty views the world and interacts with human beings; painting god as a judgmental punisher of those daring to oppose its desires; condemning people to endless torment, and so forth.

[01:55:47.17] Dean Warwick: These are false ideas, false notions for a sinister purpose to turn people away from faith and to frighten. This, the extraterrestrials do across the board with every human undertaking. They find a way to corrupt it and to turn it to a darker purpose, so it ends up causing harm. It is a sport they engage in, with relish, over and over and over again. That is why even your entertainment causes you harm by promoting false ideas, false pursuits, false rewards of a material sort that are empty of true value and the exalting of harming others as being sophisticated and hip, and desirable to emulate. Even promoting criminality by telling you how to do it and how not to do it. It is the crime creator's textbook. Turn on the television and you will learn how not to rob banks, and how not to do this and that and how to avoid the traps of forensic evidence left behind. How convenient, and you will be impulsed with dark desires as well. You will have your conscience dimmed, and you will be pushed into despair by the roadblocks put in your way to enjoy life, and to succeed, and will be tempted to prey on others when other options are closed to you for your survival.

[01:58:08.03] Dean Warwick: This is all an orchestration. It is a game, but it is a deadly game, and you are the ones who will die. It need not happen this way. The Divine can save you, if you want to save yourselves. It is, and remains, your choice. Your vote is needed. This is the need for enough humans to act together in wanting preservation of humanity in a better world. If you ask for divine help, it will be given to you, but it must be done by enough humans. No single person has enough spiritual power to counteract the forces of multiple civilizations, and the complacent and corrupt humanity irrelevant to the conquest at this point. You need the divine realm and all of its resources and power to save the day for you. If you do not ask, we cannot act.

[01:59:41.16] Denny: Okay, I want to thank you for joining us today and for answering these questions, and with that I would like to ask Karl to come back.
